The Pertelote
1953

*Brevard College
Brevard, North Carolina*

Foreword

This is the centennial issue of the Pertelote; for one hundred years ago, in 1853, Rutherford College was granted a charter. It was eighty-one years later that Rutherford College merged with Weaver College to form, on the same site previously occupied by Brevard Institute, Brevard College.

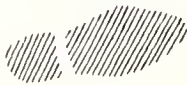

This year Brevard College is celebrating the anniversary of its first beginnings. The staff of the centennial issue of the Pertelote has used footprints to symbolize the impressions left by the faculty and students who have walked through the pages of Brevard's history.

On each division page this underlying theme is carried out with pictures of the school from the turn of the century. On all of the other pages the pictures catch events of the 1952-1953 school year that will always be part of the freshmen and sophomore class memories.

Dedication

The centennial edition of the Pertelote is gratefully dedicated to the men and women who, as members of the student body and faculty, have left the immortal prints of their separate and collective destinies implanted on the pages of the history of Brevard College.

SPORTS

BREVARD INSTITUTE

Basketball

In their first conference game, the 1953 Brevard College Tornadaes served notice on the Western Carolina Junior College Conference that they were a completely rejuvenated team. After occupying the cellar of the conference for three years the team surged to third place and retained that position until the end of the season. The success of the team can be attributed in a large way to Coach James N. Fitzpatrick, the new mentor from the University of Florida. The squad was built around the returning lettermen, and the freshmen players contributed all their efforts for a successful season.

In the tournament Brevard outpointd North Greenville 63-59 to go into the semi-finals. The team lost a close decision to Asheville-Biltmore 71-77 in the final game.

Brevard placed two men on the All-Conference team, Bill Eller and Jim Stamey. Stamey also had the top average of the team's conference game with 17.6 per game.

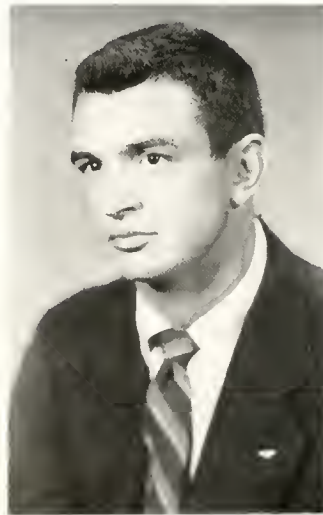

"Buckle Down Tornadaes" was the theme for this year, and the team lived up to the words of that famous fight song.

The Conference scores were as follows:

WE	OPPONENT	THEY
81	MARS HILL	80
61	SPARTANBURG	67
53	LEES-McRAE	90
60	ASHEVILLE-BILTMORE	65
80	SPARTANBURG	78
58	NORTH GREENVILLE	72
68	LEES-McRAE	78
78	ASHEVILLE-BILTMORE	77

Men's Athletic Association

Brevard College, realizing the need for a complete intramural program, organized the Men's Athletic Association this year, and a program of intramurals was launched. This club contributed much to school spirit. The most outstanding athletic event of the year was sponsored by this group—the basketball game between the "Caan Trotters" and the "Phaney Five."

The Hurricanes

The Brevard College Hurricanes opened the season with six straight wins. This record classed them as one of the best teams in the Western Carolina Junior College Conference. With only one returning letter-man, the girls went on with a winning spirit and lost games to only two college opponents.

High competition is not stressed with the girls team, and much fun was had by the team as they met new and interesting people at other schools. The high scorers for the year were Doris Ferguson and Jennie Lou Morris.

Woman's Athletic Association

The purpose of the W. A. A. is to stimulate interest in athletics and gymnastics and to standardize and promote health and sportsmanship. Athletic points are awarded for participation in individual and team sports. When a girl has earned 500 points, she is awarded the school letter.

Intramural sports contests are sponsored by the W. A. A. Three groups, the Sophomores, the Freshmen, and the Day Students—have representative teams. Each group elects a student manager who is responsible for the interest and participation of her group. To winning teams go points which go toward the most cherished of all awards—the Intramural Trophy.

The interest in the W. A. A. this past year reached a new high. Ninety percent of the girls enrolled at Brevard College entered actively in the contests. The officers and members of the Board are to be congratulated upon such an excellent achievement.
